[A researcher meeting a visiting colleague]

- A. Doctor Allen! Welcome! We didn't expect you until tomorrow.
- B. Yes. I apologize for any confusion. My original schedule was completely different. Apparently, the agency sent my documents ahead, but I was concerned about their security if I wasn't here to collect them. So I arranged for an earlier flight.
- A. Excellent. Did you have any difficulty with Customs?
- B. I have no complaints; they were certainly competent, and there were no problems.
- A. Good. Your apartment is available immediately. We can discuss the agenda together over dinner, if that would be convenient.
- B. Of course. A practical suggestion.
